Gift of Carnegie Inc. to the Allegheny Co. 6.25.1904.

ANDREW CARNEGIE, the donor of the magnificent monument which has been erected and is this day unveiled to the memory of Col. James Anderson, needs no introduction to the readers of this Souvenir. His gifts of public libraries and church organs, as well as those to charity and his many other philanthropic acts, are known and appreciated from Wick, Scotland, in the North, to Atlanta, Georgia in the South, and from Edinburgh, Scotland, in the East, to Fairfield, Iowa, in the West. Eighty millions of dollars would not cover the cost of his gifts, and ages will not blot out the influence his philanthropy has set in motion. In his own words he is "helping those who help themselves," and he has found no better means of doing so than by founding public libraries, where the rich or the poorest of the poor may gain knowledge without money and without price.

He began life poor but honest and ambitious, and the world knows what he has attained. He loved good books and appreciated their value. Col. Anderson, started his public library away back in 1850, when Mr. Carnegie was a poor, hardworking boy, in Allegheny, earning the paltry sum of one dollar and twenty cents a week, as a "bobbin-boy" in a cotton factory. Think of that! Mr. Carnegie took advantage of Col. Anderson's generous offer, and how well he appreciated it then is shown to-day after more than half a century has come and gone. Col. Anderson's act in founding that public Library is largely responsible for the many libraries that have been erected by Mr. Carnegie.

Hundreds of old residents of Allegheny well remember Andrew Carnegie when he lived in the city. Many of them speak of him as a "quiet, gentlemanly fellow, who never had much to say, but was a hustler." Others who knew him intimately say "he was a great boy for home and books, but a mighty good fellow at that, and one who could turn a dollar to good advantage as well, and even better, than the best of us."

At the opening of the Pittsburgh Free Carnegie Library, Mr. Carnegie said :

"Our newspapers have recently quoted from a speech in which I referred to the fact that Colonel Anderson—honored be his memory—opened his four hundred books to the young in Allegheny city, and attended every Saturday to exchange them; and that to him I was indebted, as was Mr. Phipps, for admission to the sources of knowledge, and that I then resolved that if ever surplus wealth came to me—and nothing then seemed more unlikely, since my revenue was one dollar and twenty cents a week as a bobbin boy in a factory; still I had my dreams—it should be devoted to such work as Colonel Anderson's.

"But I also come by heredity to my preference for free libraries. The newspaper of my native town recently published a history of the free library of Dunfermline, and it is there recorded that the first books gathered together and opened to the public were the small collections of three weavers. Imagine the feelings with which I read that one of these three was my honored father. He founded the first library in Dunfermline, his native town, and his son was privileged to found the last."

COL. JAMES ANDERSON

JAMES ANDERSON, iron manufacturer, philanthropist and founder of the first public library in Allegheny, was born in Shippensburg, Pa., August 3d, 1785, and died in Allegheny, Pa., March 11th, 1861, in his seventy-sixth year.

He was of Scotch-Irish parentage. His father, Maj. William Anderson, served in the Revolutionary War in the Pennsylvania troops, under Gen. Washington. He came with his family to Pittsburgh about the year 1797, and built a house at what is now Eighth Street and Penn Avenue. After growing to manhood, Col. Anderson succeeded his father in the milling business, running a grist and saw mill, the first one run by steam west of the Allegheny Mountains. He afterward went into the brick-making business and contracting.

He built, in 1827, the first iron-mill in Allegheny, at the west side of Darragh Street, extending from Robinson Street to the river. His business activity embraced, in addition to iron manufacturing, active interests in the Allegheny (Sixth Street) Bridge, Monongahela Bridge, the Exchange National Bank and the Manchester Savings Bank.

As a philanthropist, he was a director of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, the House of Refuge (now the Reform School at Morganza, Pa.) and acted for twenty-three years as Inspector, and for fifteen years as President of the Board of Managers of the Western Penitentiary. In the War of 1812, he served in the Northwestern army under Gen. Harrison and won the rank of Colonel.

He resided from 1830 until his death on the North Side of Ohio Lane (now Pennsylvania Avenue, between Manhattan and Chartiers Street.

In religion he was of the United Presbyterian faith.

He married Miss Ann Miller, June 6, 1811, who died May 18, 1859. She was a daughter of one of the early settlers of Pittsburg. There were born of this union six children, three sons who died in infancy, William G. who died at Canton, Ohio, about 1870, Mrs. Isabella B. Burnett, wife of Rev. Burnett, born November 19, 1816, died April 20, 1903, at 835 Preston Street, Philadelphia, and Henry L., born September 2, 1833, died October 11, 1902 at Fair Oaks, Pa. The portrait of Col. Anderson, reproduced on preceding page, is after the oil painting in the office of the Western Penitentiary.

THE ANDERSON LIBRARY

OLONEL ANDERSON established in 1850 what he called "The James Anderson Library Institute of Allegheny City". It consisted of the books of his private library, the use of which was offered to all who desired to avail themselves of the opportunity. Many did so.

The book plate bears the apt motto, "Take fast hold of instruction, let her not go". Prov. 4:13. The library numbered in the beginning about fifteen hundred volumes, and was supported by a voluntary subscription of two dollars a year. It first occupied the second floor of a building on the south east corner of Federal Street and the Diamond, the site now occupied by the Second National Bank. Mathias McGonigle, father of Robert D. McGonigle, was chief librarian and among his assistants were Major W. W. Tyson, now commander of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Erie, Pa.; Major Horatio Kelcy Tyler, of Allegheny, S. P. Dobbins, James R. Oxley and Robert J. Campbell, son of Henry Campbell, at that time (1854-1857) treasurer of Allegheny City.

The officers in 1850 were President, Thomas M. Howe; Vice President, John Fleming; Secretary, George R. Riddle; Treasurer, Robert H. Davis, and the Board of Managers were John Morrison, James Marshall, Samuel Herron, Henry Bollman, Josiah King, David Clark Stockton, William Walker, Sylvanus Lothrop, contractor, Henry Irwin, whose ropewalk was on Irwin Avenue, Thomas Farley, cabinet maker and once postmaster, William O'Hara Robinson, attorney, James Park, Jr., of the Park Steel Co., and William Boyd, carpenter and contractor.

The library observed the following hours: Tuesdays and Saturdays 7 to 9:30 P. M. from March 1st to Oct. 1st, and 6 to 9 P. M. from Oct. 1st to March 1st.

In 1853 the library occupied the house of Robert Donaldson, at 611 West Diamond Street, which is now the Hotel Beuchler. The City Treasurer's office was also in this building at that time. Horatio Kelcy Tyler was then librarian in charge and after forty years, can give the numbers and titles of many of the most popular books of that time. The two books that led all the rest in popularity in those days were, "Green Mountain Boys", by D. P. Thompson, and "Wild Western Scenes", by J. B. Jones.

It is difficult to trace the later history of the Anderson Library, but it must have been closed not later than 1862, when the civil war overshadowed every other public interest. The books were boxed up and stored in the basement of City Hall.

In November 1865, the funds of the Allegheny Gymnasium, which had been closed at the outbreak of the war, were applied to the establishment of the Allegheny Library Association. Among prominent members of the Association and the literary society established in connection with it in 1870, were: James L. Graham, John Brown, Jr., Rev. John B. Clark, Robert Ashworth, A. H. English, publisher, W. W. Martin, Wm. Hamilton, superintendent of the Allegheny Parks, Alexander Leggate, J. N. Davidson, president of the Second National Bank, James McBrier, now of Erie, Pa., Henry Phipps, Jr., Robert Elton, Samuel Watson, late chairman of the Carnegie Free Library Committee of Allegheny, and Thomas L. Rodgers.

Shortly after the organization of the Allegheny Library Association, the books of the Anderson Library were committed to its charge by the City Council. In 1871, the management of the Allegheny Library Association, which was always a subscription or proprietary library, was placed in the hands of the Board of School Controllors, who, by special act of the Legislature dated February 26th, 1872, were empowered to appropriate from the school funds a sum for the maintenance of a free public library.

The Board of School Controllors took up the matter at once, and secured commodious quarters for the Library in City Hall, in the room on the second floor, now used for committee meetings. The Controllors make an appropriation each year to cover the running expenses connected with the Library. It occupied those quarters until 1890, when it was moved to the third floor of the Sterrett building, at Ohio and West Diamond Streets.

When the Carnegie Free Library was organized in 1890, it was generally expected that the Public School Library would be merged with the new institution, but there were, unfortunately, legal difficulties which prevented the consolidation.

When the Board of School Controllors received the Library, it contained from three thousand to four thousand volumes. It now has twenty-six thousand volumes and a circulation of fifty-thousand per annum. The first librarian under the management of the Board of School Controllors was C. W. Benney, who was appointed March 5, 1872, and the second was his son James W. Benney, who served from April 4th, 1876, until his death which occurred in September 1902. In October of the same year, David O. Dalzell, the present librarian, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Benney. Miss Mattie McAllister, the assistant librarian, was born and raised in Allegheny. She has held the position for twenty-three years.

The Library now occupies permanent and elegant quarters on the first floor of the new High School annex, at Arch and Erie Streets. There are now in the Library about four hundred books from the original Anderson Library.

MATHIAS MCGONNIGLE

MATHIAS MCGONNIGLE, the first Librarian, appointed by Col. Anderson, was born in a log cabin that stood at Ohio Street and Union Avenue, Allegheny, in 1818. It is said he was the first white child born inside "the Commons", now the parks. He lived in Allegheny all his life, and died practically where he was born, in November, 1870, aged about 62 years. In his earlier days he was a tailor. He was Clerk of the Market and left that position in 1863; when the present Market House was completed. Previous to serving as Market Clerk he was Col. Anderson's Librarian, the library then being located at Federal and South Diamond Streets, where the Second National Bank now stands. As an apprentice boy Andrew Carnegie came there and received books from time to time, from Mr. McGonnigle.

Mr. McGonnigle was clerk of Common Council for a few years, until he was succeeded, on January 1, 1866, by Robert Dilworth, the present incumbent. He was then elected Secretary of the Board of Directors of the Poor, and held that position until his death, when he was succeeded by his son, Robert D. McGonnigle, who resigned the position in 1887.

Mathias McGonnigle was married to Sarah Ann Cochran, who died in the McGonnigle homestead, on Union Avenue, in April 1898. She had lived in the house about fifty years. To this union were born four sons: William, of Philadelphia; Marshall, of Allegheny; George, (deceased), and Robert D., of East End, Pittsburgh.

Mr. McGonnigle was, in the days of slavery, an ardent abolitionist, and was always a great friend of the colored people. Later he became a Republican. He was also an enthusiastic temperance advocate and a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Major H. K. Tyler.

MAJOR H. K. TYLER, for several years, Librarian of the Anderson Library, was born in the First Ward, Allegheny, January 28, 1838. He was only 14 years old when he became Librarian.

Major Tyler was a street contractor in the city until just before the War of the Rebellion. He enlisted as Captain of Company E. Seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers Infantry, April 15, 1861, the day after Fort Sumter was fired upon by the Rebels. He was discharged June 28, 1865. He was promoted to Major of the One-hundred and Ninety-third Pennsylvania Volunteers in 1864. During the war he raised five volunteer companies. He is now Pension Attorney, his office being at Sandusky and North Diamond Streets.

William Marshall Stevenson.

WILLIAM MARSHALL STEVENSON, the first Librarian of the Carnegie Free Library of Allegheny, Pa. was born in Johnstown, Pa., November 30, 1855. His father was Dr. Ross Stevenson a Presbyterian clergyman. He is a brother of M. H. Stevenson, Esq., of the Allegheny County Bar and of Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York City.

After graduating from Washington and Jefferson College in 1876, he studied in Europe for several years, was engaged in teaching languages for four years, but gave up this work for the practice of law in 1885. He did journalistic work for a number of years in Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago. In 1890 he was appointed to the position by Councils and was the first Librarian of the first Carnegie Free Public Library in the United States.

David Ochiltree Dalzell.

DAVID OCHILTREE DALZELL, Librarian of the Public School Library, which is the outgrowth of the Anderson Library, was born in Allegheny, February 5, 1863. He received his education in the Fourth Ward Public Schools, under Principal John Morrow, now Superintendent of the Schools of Allegheny City.

He was married in 1892 to Miss Barbara Louise Findlay, of Mt. Pleasant, O. He is a Republican and active in politics. He was re-elected Librarian this month. Miss McAlister was re-elected Assistant Librarian.

Edward Ernest Eggers

EDWARD ERNEST EGGERS, Librarian of the Carnegie Free Library, was born in the Fourth Ward, Allegheny, August 18, 1867. He is a son of the late F. H. Eggers, who was also a native of Allegheny, and who was favorably known as an apothecary and druggist in his home town for more than half a century. Librarian Eggers received his education in the Fourth ward school, then in charge of the present efficient Superintendent of the City School system John Morrow. Mr. Eggers was graduated from the Allegheny High School in 1883 and from the Western University in 1887, with the degree of B. S. Mr. Eggers is married, his wife being a daughter of the late Mayor N. H. Voegtley. To this union was born two daughters, Dorothea and Elizabeth. He was appointed librarian last March, and assumed the duties of the office on April 1.

Members Committee

HENRY H. BUENTE was born in the Fourth ward, Allegheny City, March 1, 1848, and educated in the Fourth ward public school of Allegheny City.

In 1889 he was first elected to the Allegheny City Common Council from the Second ward for a term of two years, and was re-elected in 1891 and 1893. He was appointed Superintendent of the Carnegie Library building on October 1, 1895, which position he continues to hold. Mr. Buente is a very affable gentleman and highly esteemed by all who know him.

ALLEGHENY CARNEGIE FREE LIBRARY

Monument Committee

WILLIAM NIMICK FREW, Mr. Carnegie's representative in connection with many of the gifts the great iron and steel master has given to Pittsburg and Allegheny, as well as to the Col. Anderson monument, was born in Pittsburg, July 10, 1854. He is a son of William and Martha (Long) Frew, and was educated at Yale College, graduating from that institution in 1876. He studied law in the office of Hamptor & Dalzell, and in 1878 and 1879, took a course at Columbia Law School, in New York. He was admitted to the bar in 1879. He has practically retired from the practice of law and devotes his attention to conducting his private businesses and looking after Mr. Carnegie's interests in this section. On January 13, 1881, he was married to Miss Emily W., a daughter of George A. Berry. They have three children, William, Margarita and Virginia. Mr. Frew is president of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburg and president of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Institute.

He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and of the Hero Fund Commission. The letter from Mr. Carnegie to Mr. Frew regarding his proposal to donate the Col. Anderson Monument to the City follows:

Alberton Cannes, France, January 6th, 1898.

Dear Mr. Frew,

I wish a monument erected to Colonel Anderson, to stand in front of the Allegheny Library. It was he who opened his books, 400 volume, to the boys of Allegheny City, and the depth of my gratitude to him increases every year I live. He opened the temple of knowledge to me and to Mr. Phipps, and several other dear friends. He has relatives living, I think in Sewickley, one of whom wrote me recently and you may possibly obtain pictures or descriptions of him; but if not it is not essential, as the monument can be erected without us having a likeness, a figure being designed to represent the wise benefactor.

I wish you would take the matter in hand; you should ask several sculptors to submit designs. The monument could stand upon a pedestal in front of Ohio street, but perhaps it may have to stand in some other part of the public square. Of course St. Gaudens must be asked. Please take into conference, my friend Howard Russell Butler, upon whose taste and sense I much rely. The monument must be something worthy, nothing mean or skimp about it. I will furnish the inscription.

Now since I have laid this upon you, the matter is off my hands—do your worst.

Always yours very truly,

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

W. N. FREW, ESQ.,
Carnegie Building,
Pittsburg, Pa.

On February 8, 1898, Mr. Frew sent a letter to Hon. Charles Geyer, then mayor of Allegheny, notifying him of Mr. Carnegie's wish. The mayor at once took up the matter and asked councils to appoint a committee to choose a site and arrange for the unveiling of the monument, which they did. Mr. Carnegie chose Daniel Chester French, as the sculptor, but he was so crowded with work then that it was not until 1902 he was able to begin work on the statue of labor and the bust of Col. Anderson.

JOHN W. ROBINSON, Chairman of the Councilmanic Committee appointed to select a site and to arrange for the unveiling of the Col. James Anderson monument, was born in Allegheny City, in 1854. He attended the Allegheny Fourth Ward public schools and afterwards the Western University for two years, and was graduated from the Military Academy of Chester, Pa., with the degree of civil engineer. For about twenty years he was employed by the Pittsburg & Western Railway Company as freight agent, special agent, etc. He is a Democrat and an earnest party advocate. He is representing the Fourth ward for the second consecutive time in Select Council. Mr. Robinson works hard for his constituents, and is an able representative on the floor of councils. He is an affable, courteous gentleman, and true to his friends, who number thousands.

DR. ANDREW EASTON, was born July 12, 1845, in the Kishaquoilas Valley, Mifflin County, Pa., and is a son of Rev. John S. Easton, D. D.

He received his education in Westminster and Monmouth Colleges, graduating from the latter institution in 1867. He was also graduated from Bellevue (New Jersey) Medical College in 1871. In that year he took up the practice of medicine in Allegheny, locating first on Chestnut street; but since 1887 has had his office and residence at Montgomery avenue and Sandusky street. He is one of the most successful and widely known practitioners in the city.

In 1871 he married Ida L. Reed, and to the union were born two children, Dr. John Easton, of East End, Pittsburg, and Mrs. F. E. Lee, of Carnegie. Dr. Easton served three terms as school director from the Fourth ward, and is serving his second term as select councilman from the Third ward

HENRY MEYER, attorney-at-law, councilman and politician, was born on the South Side, Pittsburg, November 26, 1848. His parents were John and Margaret Feldner Meyer. He attended the public school at South Tenth street, several German schools and academies, and was graduated from Yale college in 1873, and from the Harvard Law School in 1875. He studied law with Miller & McBride and in 1875 was admitted to the bar. On June 6, 1882, he married Miss Mattie Graham, and to the union was born one child, Henry Graham Meyer, who is a sophomore at Yale College.

In politics Mr Meyer is a Democrat of the old school, and has always taken an active interest in local, State and national contests. He was elected school director in the Eleventh ward, Allegheny, in 1874, and in 1880 select councilman from the Eleventh ward, Pittsburg. In 1877 he was a candidate for Assistant District Attorney and for several days after the election it was thought by many that he had been elected. In 1881 he was defeated for the State Senate by the late John Neeb, and in 1888 he was a candidate for Auditor General. In 1894 he ran for Congressman-at-large. He expected defeat when he accepted this nomination, but agreed to sacrifice himself for the good of his party. He was Delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, which nominated Grover Cleveland for President, and was elected common councilman from the Second ward, Allegheny, in 1903. Mr. Meyer is a Presbyterian in faith and practice, and a member of the North Presbyterian Church, Allegheny.

COURSIN LAFAYETTE MOHNEY, who represents the Tenth ward of Allegheny City in the Common Council, is a native of Clarion county, this State, where he was born in 1860, his parents being Samuel and Elizabeth Mohney. Until he was sixteen years of age Mr. Mohney attended the public schols. After leaving school he taught for several years in Jefferson county, Pa., and then came to Allegheny City, where he took a commercial course in Duff's College.

Shortly after finishing his education he began contracting and building, operating throughout the country. He followed this business until 1901, when he became one of the firm of Langenheim, Cochran & Company, with offices and works located at 1221 and 1225 Pennsylvania avenue, Allegheny City, Pa.

Mr. Mohney is a member of the B. P. O. Elks, Independent Order of Odd Fellows No. 1057, a member of No. 157 Junior Order of United American Mechanics, also a Past Master in the United Workmen.

Politically he is a staunch Democrat and has always taken a keen interest in questions of public policy. In February, 1903, he was elected to the Common Council from the Tenth ward, and upon the organization of the new Council he was appointed on the committees of Surveys and Public Works and later on he was honored by being appointed on the Col. Anderson Monumental Committee, and succeeds the late Dr. Duff on the Finance committee.

Mr. Mohney has proven his ability to serve on the above committees, being well fitted for the honor bestowed upon him by his long experience as a contractor and builder which gave him a peculiar fitness as his colleagues have learned.

In 1883 Miss Annie DeGroff, an estimable young lady of Verona, Pa., became Mrs. Mohney and four children were born to this union. Two of these children, Eva and Clyde are still living. Clara and Paul died young.

Although not an old man, Mr. Mohney's life has been one of unusual activity, and he has accomplished as much as many men who are his senior by many years. Some of the largest and finest buildings in Pittsburg, Allegheny City, and the surrounding country have been erected under his personal supervision, and few contractors are better known or sustain a higher reputation. One of his latest feats was the moving of the Grand Opera House, which was one of the largest undertakings of the kind ever accomplished in this section. Newspapers through the world have commented on this operation.

JAMES P. WALL, Common Councilman from the Eleventh ward, is one of Allegheny's prominent young business men, being connected with his father, Patrick Wall, under the firm name of the P. Wall Manufacturing Supply Company, with offices and works at 705 Preble avenue, Allegheny, Pa.

James P. Wall is a member of the Col. James Anderson Monument Committee. He is a Democrat in politics, and was elected to Common Council in 1903 from the Eleventh ward, one of the strongest Republican wards in the city. He is a striking example of the young business man in politics.

LAFAYETTE WILLS, Clerk of Select Council and Secretary of the Col. Anderson Monument Committee, was born in Allegheny, July 7, 1868. His parents are Henry and Henrietta (Erb) Wills, both well-known residents of this city. Mr. Wills received his education in the ward schools of Allegheny, and in 1881 he went to work in the Chambers glass house on the South Side, remaining there five years. He then was connected for seven years with the Armstrong Cork Company, of Pittsburg. In 1888 he started to learn the machinist trade, serving a four years' apprenticeship with James Reese & Son. In 1892 he accepted a position as clerk in the City Controllers office and held that place until November, 1901, when he was elected clerk of Select Council to fill the unexpired term of Albert Koenig who resigned. He was reelected in April, 1903. Mr. Wills is a staunch Republican and a faithful party worker. He is a member of Allegheny Lodge, 339 B. P. O. Elks, and is one of its most popular members.

HENRY BROWNFIELD SCOTT, the compiler of this souvenir, and chairman of the Sub Committee on Program of the Col. Anderson Monument Committee, was born at Morris Cross Roads, Fayette County, Pa., October 18

1857. He is a son of Major A. W. Scott, who died in 1898, and Martha E. (Gans) Scott. He received his education in the public schools of his native county, in several private schools and at the Southwest State Normal College, at California, Pa. He taught school for several years in his home county and in Hancock county, W. Va. In 1889 he began newspaper work, and for three years was editor of the Uniontown, Pa., "News," now the "News Standard" of that town. For the past twelve years he has been the Allegheny reporter for the Pittsburg New Agency. Mr. Scott is a Republican and takes much interest in politics. He was married to Miss Jessie Agnes Taylor, of Kilbuck Township, this county October 21, 1896. They have one son, Rupert T., and live in North Avalon.

Description of the Col. Anderson Monument

The Col. James Anderson monument was donated to the city of Allegheny by Andrew Carnegie. The monument proper is of Connecticut red granite and was designed by Daniel Chester French, the sculptor of the bust of Col. Anderson and the Statue of Labor. The bust and statue are of bronze and are considered the finest of the kind ever produced by an American sculptor. Henry Bacon, of New York, is the architect, and Robert Caterson, also of New York, the contractor. The inscription, placed on a bronze tablet just beneath the Statue of Labor, was written by Mr. Carnegie. It is as follows:

TO COLONEL JAMES ANDERSON, FOUNDER OF FREE LIBRARIES IN WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA. HE OPENED HIS LIBRARY TO WORKING BOYS AND UPON SATURDAY AFTERNOONS ACTED AS LIBRARIAN. THUS DEDICATING NOT ONLY HIS BOOKS BUT HIMSELF TO THE NOBLE WORK. THIS MONUMENT IS ERECTED IN GRATEFUL REMEMBRANCE BY ANDREW CARNEGIE. ONE OF THE "WORKING BOYS" TO WHOM WERE THUS OPENED THE PRECIOUS TREASURES OF KNOWLEDGE AND IMAGINATION THROUGH WHICH YOUTH MAY ASCEND.

The tablet board is 33x13 inches in size and was designed by Mr. French.

Allegheny Public Schools

Allegheny has as good public schools as any city of her size in this country. This is gainsaid by none. Robert M. Park was almost entirely responsible for the establishment of the first public school in what is now Allegheny. When the law of 1830 was first passed providing for the election of school boards and the levy of a special school tax it met with the most bitter opposition. So unpopular was it that no one could be found willing to serve with Mr. Park on the Board, and several of those selected to collect the school tax, gave up the attempt, fearing violence. Mr. Park, however, was one of the heroes of peace, and, acting under advices from Harrisburg, he levied a tax, appointed collectors, elected a teacher, and for a whole year constituted the board himself! One of the collectors, meeting a wealthy citizen and a prominent member of the Presbyterian church, politely asked him to pay his school tax. Without a word of controversy the man alighted from his horse, and made such a vigorous attack with his raw hide upon the collector that he was glad to beat a hasty retreat. Mr. Park at once made this a test case. The gentleman was compelled to pay, and the law vindicated.

From the beginning the school system has grown until there is no better in the land. The officers of the Board of School Controllers now are: President, David B. Oliver; Secretary, George W. Gerwig. John Morrow is Superintendent of Schools, James E. Morrow, Principal of the High School, and David O. Palzell is Librarian of the Public School Library. Dr. Adair is chairman of the Committee on Library.

DAVID BROWN OLIVER, President of the Allegheny Board of School Controllers, was born in Dungannon, Co. Tyrone, Ireland, Oct. 31, 1834. His father was Henry W. Oliver and his mother, Margaret (Brown) Oliver, both long deceased. His father was a saddler by trade, and came to this country with his family and settled in Pittsburg in 1842, having been compelled to leave his native country because he was a Liberalist. The family moved to Allegheny in 1843, locating in the First ward, where the subject of this sketch received his education in the public schools under Professor John Kelly, a gentleman of sterling worth both as a man and an educator. Many other prominent business and professional men received their school education under the rigid but wise guidance of Prof. Kelly. Among them, and all schoolmates of Mr. Oliver, are, Robert Pitcairn, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Judge Jacob Ambler, of Salem, Ohio, the Carnegie brothers, Henry and John Phipps, Charles L. Cole,

F. S. Minister at Driesseldorf, the Borland brothers and Joseph Dorrington, of the Pittsburg, Columbus, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company. All of these men left school at an early age, few being over thirteen years old; but they had been so trained that they were able to take places in business offices and to work their way to the high positions they now occupy. Mr. Oliver was connected with the iron and steel trade as a practical manager, for over 40 years and retired from active business about four years ago, his sons taking his place in the management of the Oliver Iron & Steel Company. He was married in 1861 to Miss Rebecca Beall Cunningham, a native of Washington County, Pa., and a grand daughter of John Scott, who was the first sheriff of that county, and who represented the district in the First and Third Congresses of the United States. To this union have been born sixteen children, ten of whom are living. Mr. Oliver has been a member of Allegheny school boards for over 32 years continuously; been president of the Board of School Controllers fourteen times, and has been active in the school affairs of the city. He is a consistent Republican in politics, but was a Democrat until the second nomination of President Abraham Lincoln. He is a member of Christ's Protestant Episcopal Church, of Allegheny.

GEORGE WILLIAM GERWIG, who has been secretary of the Board of School Controllers since 1892, was born in Paris, Stark County, Ohio, in 1867.

His ancestors were among the early settlers of Allegheny County and were worthy and patriotic citizens. His father, Charles W. Gerwig, was an officer in the Union army, and four of his uncles also served with credit. His education was acquired in the old Third ward and other public schools and in the University of Nebraska, from which he graduated in 1889. He has since pursued post-graduate studies in the above institution, as well as in the University of Chicago, and the Western University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Gerwig's first business experience was with Park Brothers & Co., Ltd. He was for several years a general agent of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, and was employed in the City Treasurer's office under David Macferron. He was married June 4, 1896 to Miss Margaret McGrew, and has two children. He is a member of the First Christian Church of Allegheny. He is a member of Phi Delta fraternity, and finds pleasure and recreation in intellectual pursuits, contributing occasionally to the newspapers and magazines.

JOHN MORROW, Superintendent of the Public Schools of Allegheny, was born at Midway, Washington county, Pa. In his early years he attended the district school, and later the academy at Paris, W. Va. Later he was a student in the academy located at Mansfield (now Carnegie), Pa. His studies were next pursued at the State Normal School at Millersville, where he spent almost four years, graduating in 1865. Soon after his graduation he had charge of the graded schools at Fallston, Beaver county; then taught for a short time in the Shadyside schools, East End, Pittsburg. Next he was chosen to succeed Josiah Cohen in charge of the Hebrew school on Hancock street, Pittsburg. After leaving that work, he was principal of South Pittsburg schools until, in 1868, he was chosen principal of the Fourth ward schools, Allegheny. In this position he continued for about fourteen years, when he was elected to fill the unexpired term of L. H. Durling, Superintendent of Allegheny Schools.

Since that time Mr. Morrow has been successively reelected every three years, and has thus spent about twenty-one years in charge of the public schools of Allegheny. Among other honors that have been conferred on Mr. Morrow was the presidency of the State Educational Association, for which he acted as treasurer for eleven years. He has been a consistent Christian all his life and is a member of the Second U. P. Church, Stockton avenue; also of Post 752, G. A. R. He married in 1898, Mrs. S. R. Morrow, of Allegheny.

Mayor and Cabinet

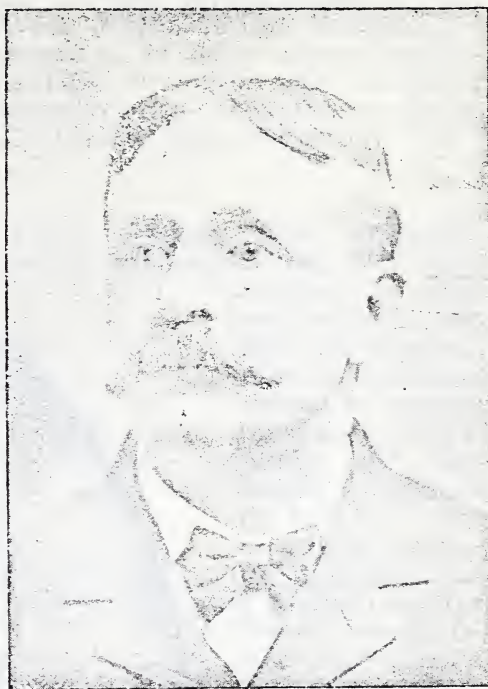

HON. JAMES GARDNER WYMAN, mayor of Allegheny, is one of the most popular and remarkable men in Western Pennsylvania. He has been Mayor of the city three times and City Recorder once. He was first elected Mayor in 1884; again in 1891, and in 1900. Under the famous "Ripper bill" ex-Governor William A. Stone displaced him from office and appointed John R. Murphy City Recorder, the bill designating that as the official title of the chief executive of the city. In 1903 Mr. Wyman was elected City Recorder by an overwhelming majority, the only City Recorder ever elected by the voice of the people. After he was elected City Recorder in 1903, the State Legislature passed an act making the title of the chief executive of the city that of "Mayor." Mr. Wyman is of English and Scotch descent, his paternal ancestors emigrating to this country in 1665. They settled in New England and many of their descendants fought in the war of the Revolution. Joseph Wyman was the name of the ancestor who came to America with his family in 1665. Mayor Wyman's maternal ancestors came from Scotland many years ago and also settled in New England. They were of that sturdy Scotch stock which has done so much to make this country what it is. Mayor Wyman was born in West Cambridge, Mass., near the historic town of Lexington, January 18, 1851, his parents being James and Elizabeth (Ward) Wyman. He received his education in the public schools of his native town, graduating from the High school there at the age of 19. He then secured a clerkship in the office of J. C. Tyler & Co., of Boston, Mass., importers and wholesale dealers in fruits, and remained with that firm five years. He then went into the contracting business for himself for about a year. In 1876 he came to Allegheny, arriving here on July 7, and at once establishing himself in the contracting business, locating in the First ward. He soon became popular and being active in politics, was elected to Common Council in 1881 and to the Select branch in 1882, serving until 1884, when he was elected Mayor. He is a Republican and was a delegate to the Republican National convention in 1900, which nominated the late lamented President William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt. He is a member and a trustee of the Central Presbyterian church of Allegheny, and a director in the Allegheny Real Estate Trust Company.

HENRY HUNNESLAGEN, Director of the Allegheny Department of Charities and Correction, was born in Pittsburg November 18, 1847. He received his early education in the German school, located on South Canal street, Allegheny, which has been added to by a lifetime of careful observation and practical study until he is now one of the most thoroughly trained and competent business men and officials in the city. His first employment was that of a grocery clerk. He learned that calling thoroughly and then went into the business for himself and afterwards became a dealer in real estate. In these businesses he acquired a host of friends, which he still retains. He has represented the Seventh ward both in Common and Select Councils, and served as clerk under Mayors Pearson and Wyman. He was chosen Police Magistrate April 20, 1896, and continued in that office until April 6, 1903, when he was appointed to his present position. He was married in 1870 to Caroline Schlieper. They have two children. Mr. Hunneshaugen is a member of the I. O. O. F. and the Allegheny Turnverein.

THOMAS B. SCANDRETT, Director of the Allegheny Department of Public Safety, is a son of William A. and Mary A. Scandrett. He was born in Allegheny in 1859, and for a number of years was identified with some of the leading mercantile establishments of the two cities. He attended the Third ward public schools of Allegheny until 1868, when his father was appointed warden of the Allegheny County jail for four years. The family moved to Pittsburg at that time and in 1871 Thomas finished his education in the public schools of that city. Shortly after this he went to work for Joseph D. Weeks and later entered the employ of W. C. Armour, a prominent merchant, with whom he remained until 1880, when he went to East Liverpool, O., to accept the position of boss warehouseman and shipper in Goodwon Brothers' crockery establishment. In 1884 he came back to Pittsburg as general manager for D. P. Collins, the pioneer five and ten cent store keeper. Later he accepted a position as clerk for the Star Union

Line Railroad. He was appointed to the position of Director of the Department of Public Safety, April 6, 1903. He was married in 1886 to Miss Lydia K. Moore, of Alliance, O., and one daughter, Mary K., who died recently, was born to them. Mr. Scandrett is an active, ardent Republican, and is favorably mentioned as a candidate for Mayor. He is a Mason and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. The Director is an efficient officer, a good fellow, and has a host of warm friends.

EDWARD JOHNSTON McILVAIN, Director of the Allegheny Department of Public Works, was born in Pittsburg in 1858. He was educated in what was then the old Fifth ward school. After leaving school he learned the trade of brick-laying, and then started in business for himself in 1878 as general contractor, later becoming a partner in the firm of Sloan & McIlvain, the firm doing a large amount of municipal work for Allegheny and Pittsburg and the surrounding boroughs. He was married in 1878 and has two children, Anna Loretta, who is the wife of Norman McFerron, and a son, Edward Taylor McIlvain. He resigned all his contracting business when he assumed the position of Director of the Department of Public Works. He is a Mason and resides in Allegheny.

Allegheny Law Department

As now constituted the Department of Law of the City of Allegheny is one of the most important safeguards of the interests of the municipality. When City Solicitor Stephen G. Porter and his assistants, Craig Smith and W. W. Stoner, took charge of the department on April 6, 1903, the finances of the city were in a lamentable state. The treasury was almost depleted, the deficits nearly $150,000; the contractors' claims aggregated about $500,000, and the East street, Perrysville avenue and Brighton road improvement assessments were unsettled. In a little over one year's time the Law Department has brought order out of chaos, and the Perrysville avenue and East street improvement affairs have been so adjusted through the courts that the benefits can be collected from the abutting property holders. The deficits and the payment of the contractors' claims have been provided for, and the Law Department now begins to see its way clear to lift the burdens of the city and place it in good financial condition.

STEPHEN GEYER PORTER, City Solicitor of Allegheny, and one of the most prominent lawyers at the Allegheny County Bar, was born May 18, 1860, and since 1877 has been a resident of the Tenth and Eleventh wards, Allegheny. He is a son of David and Maria (Hope) Porter, and is a namesake of the late Stephen Geyer, for several years solicitor of Allegheny County. He received his education in the public schools and the Allegheny High school. He studied medicine for three years and in 1890 began the study of law with his brother, L. K. Porter. In 1893 he was admitted to the bar and the same year formed a partnership with his brother, under the firm of L. K. & S. G. Porter. Their offices are in the Bakewell building, and they have a large and growing clientele. He was appointed City Solicitor of Allegheny April 6, 1903. Mr. Porter was married to Miss Elizabeth F. Ramalay

April 10, 1895. The first litigation of importance in which he was engaged was that brought about by the Homestead strike. Since then among the important suits he has tried were the will cases of James Dolen, Michael Perret, Michael Flannagan and Jacob Sussman.

CRAIG SMITH, one of the assistant City Solicitors of Allegheny, was born in Waterford, Erie County, Pa., August 10, 1876, and is a son of Prof. J. Nelson Smith, principal of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, schools, and Sarah (Wilson) Smith. When he was five years of age his parents moved to Allegheny. He attended the Sixth ward schools and graduated from the Allegheny High school before he was 15 years old, and in 1891 he was graduated from Westminster College. That fall he began the study of law with J. Scott Ferguson, and was admitted to the bar in December, 1893. He at once formed a partnership with his brother, Albert Barnes Smith, and the partnership still continues. He married Miss Mima Edith Lytle April 18, 1900. In March, 1901, he was appointed an assistant City Solicitor of Allegheny, and so well did he perform the duties of that office that he was reappointed by Mayor Wyman when the latter went into office April 6, 1903. Mr. Smith is considered one of the best corporation lawyers in the county, and has won many prominent cases, among which were those of the Pittsburg Savings Bank suits, he appearing for the stockholders.

the rising young attorneys of the Allegheny County Bar. He was born in Allegheny March 11, 1875, and is a son of J. M. and Aurelia (Palmer) Stoner. He received his education in the Second ward, Allegheny, public schools, Grove City College and the Riverside, Cal., High school. He began the study of law with his father in 1897, and was admitted to the bar in 1900. He is associated with his brother under the firm name of Frank R. & W. W. Stoner. He married Miss Carrie I. Beale, October 2, 1902, and was appointed Assistant City Solicitor April 6, 1903. He is a Republican and a hard worker for his party, as well as an earnest, well-qualified defender of the city's interests.

Sketches and Portraits of Many Prominent Citizens of Allegheny and Pittsburgh ❖ ❖ ❖

FRANCIS JOHN TORRANCE, President of Allegheny Select Council, is one of the most widely-known and respected citizens of Western Pennsylvania. His vast business interests and his connection with so many public institutions have made his name familiar and given him an acquaintance almost everywhere in the United States. Kind, genial, easily approached courteous to old and young, rich and poor alike, he is loved and esteemed by all. First and foremost in every good work, whether of business, social, religious, educational, benevolent or civic importance, he is naturally regarded as the leader in all such affairs. He was born in the Third ward, Allegheny, June 27, 1859, of Scotch-Irish parentage, his father, Francis Torrance, having been one of the earlier and best known business men of Allegheny county, who came to this country from the North of Ireland in 1850, when thirty years of age, and located here. The father of Francis J. Torrance was a man of sterling worth and honesty, and having considerable money for that day when he reached this country, he soon took a leading part in the development of this section. He was one of the founders of the Standard Manufacturing Co., of which he was President many years, and for over thirty years was manager of the Schenley estate. On account of the confidence and respect held for him by his fellow citizens, he was elected by them to many positions of local importance. He was a member of Allegheny Select Council, and for eighteen years a member of the School Board. He was a Baptist in religion, and for many years was president of the Board of Trustees of the Baptist Church of Allegheny. He died in 1886, at the age of 70.

Francis J. Torrance is certainly a "chip off the old block." However, in this age of "Captains of Industry," the strain of business conflicts is much greater than in the days of his father. But cheeriness of disposition and an almost unlimited capacity for hard work enable him to accomplish that which would burden a score of ordinary business men. Mr. Torrance was given a good education. He attended the public schools of Allegheny, and in 1874 graduated from the Third ward school. He then took a course at Newell Institute, and completed his school education at the Western University of Pennsylvania. He began his remarkable business career first as a clerk in his father's office, and then as superintendent of the Standard Manufacturing Company, and at the death of his father was made treasurer and general manager of the company. When this company was changed to the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, with branch offices in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Chicago, San Francisco and Montreal, Mr. Torrance was made First Vice President of the new company, with offices in the Arrott Building. This company has one of the finest and most extensive enameling works in the world. It is located in Allegheny, and employs over a thousand men.

Mr. Torrance married Miss Mary R. Dilbert, daughter of David and Lydia (Griffith) Dilbert, of Johnstown, Pa., November 6, 1884. They have one child, a daughter, Jane. Few men have risen to such commanding ability and eminent success at so early an age as that attained by the subject of this sketch. Besides being first vice president of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, he is president of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, president of the Washington Street Railway Company, president of the Riverside Land Company, president of the Pittsburgh Natatorium Company, and a director in a number of banking institutions in both Pittsburgh and Allegheny. He is a member of the Americus Club and was its president two years. He is also a member of the Duquesne Club, the Press Club and of the Fulton Club, New York City; also of the Strollers and the Pennsylvania Society of that city. In 1895 he was appointed by Governor Hastings Commissioner of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, and was elected president of the State Board of Charities in 1901. He is a staunch and active Republican in politics and is prominently mentioned for Governor and for the United States Senate. Esteemed and respected as he is by all classes, he could be elected to either of these offices if he so aspired.

ELMER GEORGE LOOMIS, Superintendent of the Allegheny Bureau of Electricity, was born in Randolph Township, Portage County, O., August 23, 1854. He is a son of Russell Loomis, an Ohio farmer, and received his education in the public schools of his native township. He was always of a mechanical turn and at an early age developed marked ability to make toys and wind and water mills.

In 1880 he was employed for a few months in the Buckeye Engine Works, at Salem, O., and during the same year he came to Allegheny and secured employment in the Ft. Wayne shops. Later he worked in the shops of the Westinghouse Machine Company, and in 1882 he was appointed engineer of the Allegheny Columbia Engine Company. He showed such rare ability to repair fire engines and apparatus that James Crow, then chief of the Allegheny fire department, started a repair shop and placed Mr. Loomis in charge of it. In a short time he was elected by councils Superintendent of Fire Telegraph, and when John R. Murphy was elected Director of the Department of Public Safety, Mr. Loomis was appointed Superintendent of the Bureau of Electricity and has held the office ever since.

Allegheny has one of the best fire alarm and fire telegraph systems in the country, and it has been secured largely through Mr. Loomis' efforts. He has made much of the intricate machinery used in the fire alarm system.

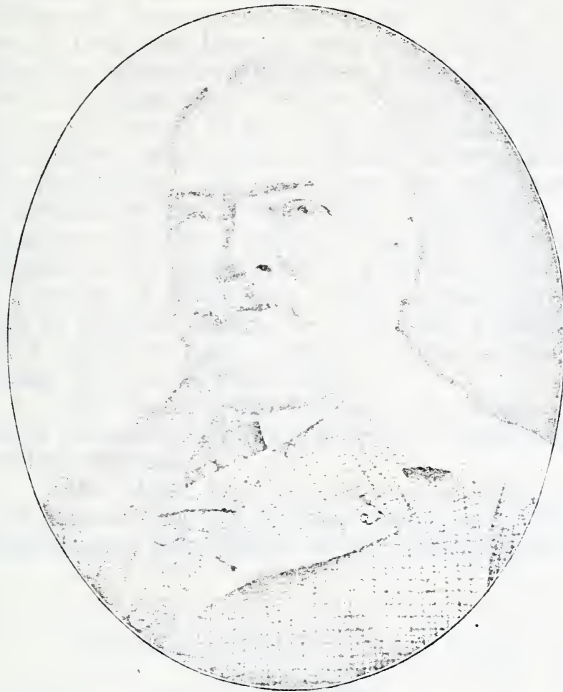

He was married in 1884 to Miss Lizzie Hanes, and to the union have been born seven children, all of whom are living. He is a Mason, a Shriner, and a member of Allegheny Lodge 339, B. P. O. E.

JOSEPH WEIS, Common Councilman from the Third ward, was born in Baden, Germany, in 1850. His parents were Joseph and Akoda Weis, the former of whom died in 1878. Joseph was educated in the school of Baden, after which he learned the trade of brewer. When 18 years old he came to America and located in Allegheny. He secured employment with the Heckelmen brewery until 1873, when he started into business for himself, opening the Hoffman brewery. In 1877 he converted his brewery into a malt house. In 1890 he started his hotel and cafe at 717 Chestnut street, and still conducts the establishment, having one of the best hotels in the eastern part of the city. In 1864 he converted his malt house into a flat and since that time he has devoted himself to his hotel business and the duties of a councilman. Mr. Weis is a Democrat and as such was elected to council in 1903. He is a member of the Committees on Public Works, Library and Water. He is a member of the Turnverein, several German clubs, the Catholic Mutual Beneficial Association, No. 79, and the Catholic church. In 1871 he was married to Josephine Hoffman, of Allegheny. She died in 1880, and in 1881 he married Theresa Grapp, of Allegheny. To the second union were born three children, Joseph, Jr., Mary and Helen. Mrs. Weis died in 1891. Mr. Weis is regarded as one of the substantial business men of the city.

MORRIS W. MEAD, for several years Superintendent of the Bureau of Electricity in Pittsburg, Pa., was born at Underhill, Vt., October 28, 1854. He is the son of the late Daniel C. and Naomi O. (Terrell) Mead, and a grandson of Josiah Mead, a farmer of Underhill, who belonged to one of the old Vermont families. Mr. Mead was born in that town in 1828. When Morris W. was about four years of age, his father went to Lowell and opened a hotel called the Wamesett House, at the same time commencing the study of law with B. F. Butler. After several years spent in Lowell, he changed his residence to Granitville, Mass., where he was station agent and Postmaster until in 1861 he removed to Boston to accept a position with E. H. Ashcroft Manufacturing Company. This Company was interested in steam gauges; and for them he came to Pittsburg, opening a supply depot for their business, all the manufacturing establishments obtaining from him their first steam gauges, water gauges, valves and so forth.

Morris W. Mead attended the schools of the Fourteenth Ward, Pittsburg, and afterward the University of Underhill, Vt., graduating from the Pittsburg High School in 1873. He read law for two years with J. H. Baldwin, and after his father's death went into the oil business for two years, during which time he drilled two wells near Oil City. In 1877 he returned to Pittsburg, taking the position of head salesman in the establishment of J. R. & A. Murdock. After a short period he entered the city fire alarm office as an operator, being promoted in a year's time to the position of chief operator. Two years later he was appointed superintendent of the Fire Alarm Telegraph, in those days a comparatively simple office. During his first year of service a vacancy occurred, and he was made secretary of the Fire Commission, holding for two years the combined positions of secretary of the Fire Commission and superintendent of the Fire Alarm Telegraph. Under him was introduced the police telephone and telegraph system of Department of Public Safety. In 1887 the new charter was passed in Pittsburg, establishing a bureau of electricity, and Mr. Mead was made the superintendent. Under him all the new and valuable improvements in electrical communication have been introduced, and to-day Pittsburg owns as fine a system of police and fire alarm and electric light inspection as can be found in the United States. The scheme of rubber covering, made in a special manner for underground wires, is an original idea of Mr. Mead's, which he introduced into Pittsburg, an extended contest over which was one of the leading technical contests in the year 1896. Now all wire is thus protected before being laid.

Mr. Mead was president of the Pittsburg Electric Club, also a member of the New York Electric Club during the existence of those clubs. A member of the Electrical Committee of the International Fire Chiefs' Association; also a member of the National Committee for standardizing wires for electric light wiring; a member of the old-time Telegraphers' Association, and for many years a member of the National Electric Light Association; also President of the National Association of Fire and Police Telegraph Superintendents of the United States. He was honorary assistant to Professor Barrett, who was Chief of Department of Electricity at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893, one of three men to be so honored, the electricians of New York, Brooklyn and Pittsburg being chosen. He was also one of the chief electricians, with the Boston and Chicago city electricians, who made a special investigation upon the destructive nature of electrolysis. His local interests are many. He was for many years a director of the Young Men's Republican Tariff Club of Pittsburg, and Chairman of the Regatta Committee of the Yacht Club, taking a great interest in the sport. He is a Mason of the Pittsburg Lodge, No. 484, and a member of Consistory, thirty-second degree, and of the Mystic Shrine, and of Madock Lodge, K. of P., and a member of the ancient order K. of M. C.; and for many years a member of the Press Club; also a member of Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks.

Mr. Mead married Johanna L. Ecker. They reside in the East End. He is connected with the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, and was one of its earliest members.

Mr. Mead left the city service one year ago and became associated in business with the National Cable and Wire Co. as Manager of the sales department, with offices at 400 Westinghouse Building.

SAMUEL ANDREWS, was elected Superintendent of the Pittsburg Schools May 2nd, 1899. Mr. Andrews was born in Robinson township, Allegheny County, Pa., in 1847. He never engaged in any calling except that of teaching, which he commenced in 1867 in Robinson township, where he remained until called to take charge of the Chartiers township schools. After a successful period in that position, he resigned and commenced upon the duties of principal of the schools of the Thirty-sixth ward, Pittsburg. He remained there for fifteen years and assisted greatly in building up the schools. His next position was that of principal of the Sixteenth ward schools, which position he held at the time of his election as Superintendent.

RICHARD HENRY JACKSON was born at Florence, Washington Co., Pa., March 30, 1859, the son of Richard Jackson and Mary A. (Hendersson) Jackson.

Mr. Jackson's father was a cousin of the famous "Stone-wall" Jackson and was connected both through his father's family and through his mother's (Mayhugh) with many whose names are associated with the history of English Jurisprudence.. His mother's, the Hendersons and Moodys, have been associated with the history of the Church in England and America for centuries.

Mr. Jackson received his educational training in the public schools and Burgetts-town academy. At the age of fifteen he taught in the public schools of Washington Co. and has the distinction of being the youngest person to hold a permanent certificate as a teacher in the schools of Pennsylvania. He was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of West Virginia, June 23, 1883. He continued to teach until admitted to practice in Allegheny County, December 15th, 1890. 1753461

As a teacher, he was made principal of the schools of the Third ward, Allegheny city, which he resigned in 1890, upon his admission to the bar of Allegheny County. As a lawyer he has engaged in the general practice and has tried cases in every court of Allegheny County; the Superior and Supreme Courts of the State and in the Courts of the United States. For five years he has served as a member of the Board of Examiners of the Allegheny County Bar, by appointment of Common Pleas Court, No. 1. This is the longest period of continuous service of any one ever appointed on this board.

There is perhaps no member of the Allegheny County Bar to-day of wider general experience in the practice of the Law, than Mr. Jackson. In politics he is a Republican, and in every campaign in recent years, he has been regarded as the leading campaign speaker of Allegheny County. "Dick" Jackson is known in every township. He has steadily refused to be a candidate for any office, and in politics gives his services only to benefit his friends.

While his time is fully occupied in the work of his practice, hundreds can testify that he is never so busy but that he can and will take up the cause of the oppressed poor to whom he believes injustice has been done. He was married in 1881 to Miss Elizabeth McCrea, of New Cumberland, W. Va. His family consists of his wife, four sons and one daughter. He lives at No. 2650 Perrysville avenue, Allegheny City. He devotes his time outside the duties of his business to athletic affairs. He is one of the leading members of the Pittsburg Fencing Club, and other athletic organizations. Mrs. Jackson is prominently connected with the philanthropic organizations of the city and is Secretary of the Allegheny Day Nursery. Mr. Jackson and his family are all connected with the First Presbyterian Church, of Pittsburg.

RICHARD BROWN SCANDRETT, attorney-at-law, was born in Pittsburg, June 30, 1861. His father was William Alexander Scandrett, a veteran of the war of the rebellion, and his mother, Mary Brown Scandrett, of a well-known Allegheny family, her brother being John K. Brown, prominent in his day in Western Pennsylvania politics. Mr. Scandrett has given his entire career to the law and stands to-day in the front rank of Pennsylvania attorneys. A steadfast thoroughness, grounded by exceptional ability, has brought about his marked success. This tireless thoroughness led to his establishing the precedent that on a bail-piece a citizen or resident of another state may be brought before a court in the commonwealth accepting his bond without requisition papers. This was done some years ago in the now famous Von der Ahe case, Mr. Scandrett's contention being sustained in the federal courts. Among notable cases won by Mr. Scandrett were the Mc-

Murray murder case before the Pardon Board, and the House pardon case. Mr. Scandrett is the head of the law firm of Scandrett & Barnett, the Hon. John P. Elkin, Republican candidate for Justice of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, and Col. James E. Barnett, being among the members of this firm, which has offices in Pittsburg and Harrisburg and makes a specialty of a large corporation and state practice. Mr. Scandrett is president of the Pittsburg Transfer Company. He was a page boy and clerk in the Senate of Pennsylvania, 1878 to 1882. He attended the Western University of Pennsylvania and Adrian College of Michigan and graduated from Washington and Jefferson College in 1885. He registered and read law with Thomas M. Marshall and was admitted to the bar in December, 1889. Although frequently importuned he has never consented to become a candidate for public office, preferring to devote all his time to the practice of law. Mr. Scandrett has lived in Pittsburg and Allegheny all his life till recently, when he took up his residence in Edgeworth. He was married in 1890 to Miss Agnes Morrow, daughter of James E. Morrow, principal of the Allegheny High School.

ELMER E. HERMAN, the well-known funeral director, was born on First street, Allegheny, November 28, 1862. He received his education in the Third ward public schools and at Duff's College. He was born and raised in the funeral director business; his father, Henry Herman, who died three years ago, having been the first funeral director in Allegheny—establishing his business in 1865. Mr. Herman lives at Cedar avenue and First street, near where he conducts the Allegheny morgue, and he has offices at 718 Ohio street, east. He also has a funeral establishment at Second and Kenmar streets, Rankin, Pa., which is conducted by his son, Hudson Herman. He was married to Miss Nellie Phillips, in 1881. They have nine children.

HON. WILLIAM H. GRAHAM, member of Fifty-Fifth, Fifty-Sixth and Fifty-Seventh Congresses, was one of the boys that derived great benefit from the old Anderson Library. He was born in Allegheny, August 3, 1844, the son of Harrison and Elizabeth Graham. The death of his father in 1854 necessitated his leaving public school when thirteen year old and taking employment with J. J. East, wall paper merchant, Federal street, Allegheny.

Like Andrew Carnegie, he was a patron of the Anderson Library, studying its works at night while working by day.

When a little over sixteen years of age he enlisted in a Pittsburg company in the early days of the Civil War. The quota of Pennsylvania, however, having been filled, the company took a steamer to Wheeling and offered their services to loyal Virginia. They were accepted as Company A, Second Virginia Infantry, and being thrown out along the line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, in a small skirmish, killed the first Confederate soldier slain in the Civil War, they took part in the battles of Allegheny Mountain, Cross Keys, Cedar Mountain, Second Bull Run, and Beverly. The regiment was then mounted and became the Fifth West Virginia Cavalry, serving under Gens. Averill, Crooks and Sheriden, participating in the battle of Wite Sulphur Springs, where Mr. Graham was wounded. After a short sojourn at the West Penn Hospital, Pittsburg, he rejoined his company, and took part in the battles of Droop Mountain, Cloyd Mountain, Winchester, Fishers Hill, Cedar Creek, and Appomatox. He served as messenger to General Sheridan, and was one of the few spectators at the memorable meeting between Generals Grant and Lee in the house of Major McLean, at Appomatox, which resulted in the surrender of the Confederate Army.

Returning to Allegheny at the close of the war, he established the firm of Graham & Spangler, Wholesale Leather Dealers, later becoming Chairman of Mansfield & Co., Brass Manufacturers. He also became President of the Mercantile Trust Co., and Central Accident Insurance Co.

Mr. Graham has taken an active interest in politics as a Republican. Was elected to Allegheny Common Council in 1873, to Select Council in 1874, was a member of Pennsylvania Legislature from 1875 to 1878. Recorder of Deeds, Allegheny County for nine years. Was elected to Congress in 1898, serving five years, and has just been renominated for that office.

JOSEPH P. HILLDORFER, Common Councilman from the Tenth ward, was born in the Eighth ward, Allegheny, in 1871. He is a son of P. J. and Burga Hilldorfer and a splendid example of a self-made man. He had only eight months' schooling in the public schools, and when his father died in 1881, he began business for himself as a newsboy, giving his mother his earnings to help her along and to save for him. Two years later he became errand boy for butchers in the Allegheny market and so faithful and prompt was he that at the age of seventeen he was placed in charge of the killing and dressing of meats at the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, being the youngest person ever to hold that responsible position. In 1890 he went to the Pittsburg market as an employee, and three years later formed a partnership with John S. Wilson, under the firm name of Wilson & Hilldorfer. This firm was dissolved in 1899, and the firm became that of Hilldorfer & Allman, which still continues. In 1890 he married Miss Alice Simpson, of Latrobe, and to this union have been born two children, Marie and Bennie. In February, 1903, Mr. Hilldorfer was elected to Common Council from the Tenth ward, Allegheny, and he is a member of the committees on Public Safety, Charities and Surveys and is chairman of the Sub Committee on Health. He is a life member of Allegheny Lodge No. 339, B. P. O. Elks, and a member of Pittsburg Aerie, No. 76, Fraternal Order of Eagles. He is one of the substantial business men of his native city, made so by his own efforts.

CHARLES F. KIRSCHLER, President of the Provident Trust Company, of Allegheny, and Select Councilman from the Fifth ward, is a typical German-American citizen. He was born in Butler County, Pa., in 1864, his parents, Christopher and Christina Kirschler, being well-known residents of that county. His parents moved to Allegheny when he was 8 years old, and located in the Second ward. Charles attended the public schools of that ward and after the death of his father in 1876, he took a course in Duff's, and in the Iron City Business College. His first employment was as messenger in the Third National Bank of Allegheny. In a short time he was made discount clerk in that bank, and he finally rose to the position of general bookkeeper of the discount department, where he continued until January 1, 1893, when he bought out the fancy grocery business of James Lockhart, on Federal street. Conducting that business for about a year, he sold it to accept the position of secretary and treasurer of the D. Lutz & Sons Brewing Company. He held this place for five years, and continued the treasurership for three years longer. On July 1, 1901, he formed a partnership with F. H. Tooker and purchased the Newell Hotel in Pittsburg. Last winter he sold his interest in the hotel and on June 1, was elected president of the Provident Trust Company. Mr. Kirschler is a staunch Republican and has always been active in politics. He is a member of the city and the county Republican committees and is a delegate to the National Republican Convention, which meets in Chicago this month. He is a popular candidate for mayor of Allegheny to succeed James G. Wyman, is Select Councilman from the Fifth ward, having been elected in February, 1901; is chairman of the Committee on Finance, and a number of other important councilmanic committees. He takes an active interest in the affairs of the city; is aggressive and forceful in debate and at all times a stickler for right and justice. He was married in 1892, to Miss Ida, daughter of John McClurg, of Allegheny. They have two children, Carl F., Jr., and Elizabeth. Mr. Kirschler is a member of Allegheny Lodge, No. 339, B. P. O. E., and in his business, political and fraternal relations enjoys the respect and confidence of all with whom he comes in contact.

MORRIS, EINSTEIN, Select Councilman from the Twelfth ward, and manager of the Pennsylvania Light & Power Company, was born June 15, 1866. He is the youngest son of Leopold and Mathilda (Loeffler) Einstein, both recently deceased, and was born in the Fourth ward, Allegheny, on East Lacock street. He was educated in the Fourth ward public schools, and at the age of 14 years entered the drug store of the late Peter Walter, Jr., at Chestnut and Liberty streets, and remained there for five years. At the age of 19 he opened the Lion drug store at East and Mill streets, which he still owns and operates. In 1900 he became manager of the Pennsylvania Light & Power Company, with offices at Arch and West Ohio streets and plant on Ontario street. This company is the only independent concern operating an electric light plant in Allegheny City.

Mr. Einstein is the oldest member in continuous service in Select Council having been elected to that branch from the Twelfth ward first in 1889, and has succeeded himself there at each succeeding councilmanic election. He is a Republican and takes an active interest in politics, and has been a member of several state conventions. He is shrewd in both business and politics, genial and kind-hearted, and has as many warm personal friends as any man in the city. He is a member of the Americas Club, the Kenilworth Club, the Allegheny City Gymnastic Club, and other clubs: also a trustee in Pittsburg College of Pharmacy, and a member of the Eighth Street Temple.

ANDREW L. ROBINSON, City Treasurer of Allegheny, was born in Allegheny, in 1864. He attended the Fourth ward public schools, and graduated from the Western University and Newell's Business College, and for ten years he was Assistant Treasurer of the Pittsburg & Western Railway Company, resigning that position in April, 1903, to accept the office of City Treasurer, under Mayor Wyman. Mr. Robinson is a live, capable business man, and the finances of the city will be in good hands as long as he has charge of them. He is a Democrat, a hard, influential party worker and a cultured gentleman and scholar. The mayor made no mistake in appointing him City Treasurer.

GEO. C. LECKY, Select Councilman from the First ward, is of Revolutionary stock, and a typical Alleghenian, being the fourth of his name to call Allegheny home. He is a grandson of old 'Squire Lecky, who for three successive terms was Sheriff of Allegheny County. Geo. Lecky was born and still lives in the First ward, Allegheny, every inch of which is dear to him, and all that concerns his home ward is, to him, of vital interest.

His early education was received in the First ward school, and among his classmates were Thomas Carnegie, Henry Phipps, Geo. T. Oliver and many others, who have written their names "Large" upon this community.

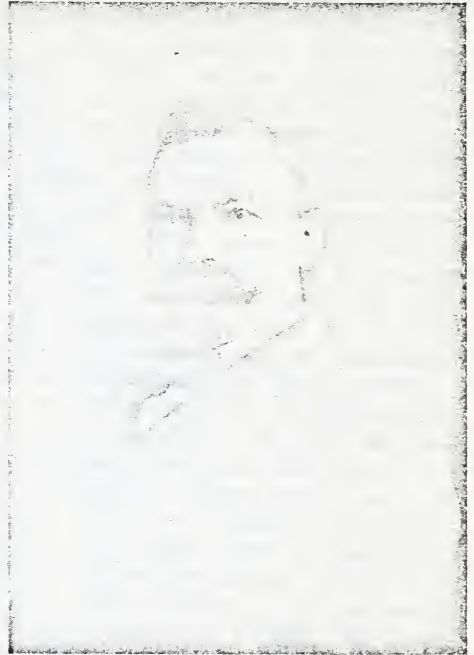

Mr. Lecky graduated from the Philadelphia Polytechnical College with first honors, and soon after married Catherine Denny Dallas, a niece of George M. Dallas, once a vice-president of the United States.

Mr. Lecky is now connected in business with Geo. S. Fleming, of the firm of Jos. Fleming & Son Company, and they have a great bond of sympathy, in that both are zealous First warders, Mr. Fleming being Select Councilman from the First ward, Pittsburg, and Mr. Lecky holds a similar position in Allegheny. His election is the outcome of the interest evinced in his successful campaign for school director. He was elected by a large majority to that office, and so well did he fill it that when a representative from the First ward for Select Council was wanted the people of the ward rallied 'round him and gave him such whole-hearted support that he could but know it was the voice of the people that spoke in choosing him as their representative in the Select branch of the city councils.

CHARLES A. MUEHLBRONNER, proprietor of the Iron City Produce Company, whose place of business is at 623 Liberty avenue, Pittsburg, and one of the most successful and prominent concerns in Western Pennsylvania, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., May 10, 1857. When he was a baby his parents moved to La Grange, O., later to Richmond, Ky., and in 1865 to Pittsburg, where their son attended the public schools until he was 15 years old. At this time he started to learn the painting trade, but after eighteen months' service quit that line and spent four years as clerk in an Allegheny grocery. In 1878 he went to San Francisco, Cal., where he worked as a painter for a year and a half. He then returned to Allegheny and for two and a half years sold grocers' supplies. In 1872 he started a poultry business in Pittsburg, later adding fruit and vegetables to his stock, and from that humble beginning he has built up the Iron City Produce Company, now the largest house of its kind in the two cities, occupying the large four-story building at 623 Liberty avenue. The company handled $600,000 worth of produce last year, and did a business of over

21,000 carloads, besides heavy shipments by river. This immense business is carried on entirely by correspondence, the customers ordering their goods by mail. The produce handled by this company is strictly first-class. The trade knows this, and it does not require salesmen to drum up orders. Besides his vast produce interests, Mr. Muehlbronner is a director in the Western Savings & Deposit Bank, a director in the German National Bank of Pittsburg, and the Central Savings & Trust Company, and a stockholder in the German-American Savings & Trust Company. In all his dealings he is fair and honorable, and is kind to all. He is a staunch Republican, and his political career has been one which reflects great credit upon himself. He was elected tax collector of the Seventh ward, Allegheny, and held that office for three years. While tax collector he was elected a member of the School Board of that ward and also the representative in Common Council, thus holding three public offices at the same time, and discharging the duties of them all with great care and fidelity. His ability and attention to the public welfare won him a re-election to Common Council and to a seat in the Select branch. While serving in the latter body he was elected to the State Legislature in 1890. He, therefore, resigned his seat in Select Council. He served two terms in the Legislature and in 1898 was elected to the State Senate. He was nominated for re-election in 1902 by the Republicans, but was defeated by only 400 votes, in the Citizens-Democratic landslide of that year. Mr. Muehlbronner won a national reputation as a life preserver in the fall of 1903, by rescuing half a dozen people whose boat had sunk in the Mammoth cave of Kentucky. He is prominent in the social life of this section, and lives in a beautiful home on California avenue, Allegheny. He is a Thirty-second Degree Mason, a noble of the Mystic Shrine, a member of the I. O. O. F., the K. of P., B. P. O. Elks and several other fraternal orders. He is a contributing member of the German Lutheran church and a member of the Teutonia Singing Society, the Turners and several other social organizations.

CHARLES A. SPICER, a member of the Common Council from the Second ward, Allegheny, was born in Jefferson County, N. Y., in 1854, and is the son of Charles A. Spicer, who died in 1895, and Achsa I. Spicer, who died in 1901. When he was a small boy Mr. Spicer's parents moved to Wellington, O., where he received his elementary education in the public schools. He attended Oberlin College, at Oberlin, O., and then learned the profession of a photographer at Wellington. Three years after learning this profession he came to Pittsburg and for 23 years was associated with the veteran photographer, the late B. L. H. Dabbs. He is considered one of the finest retouchers of photographs in the two cities, and many of the pictures in this souvenir have been taken by him. In 1890 he established a business for himself at 410 Federal street, Allegheny, where he has an enviable trade. He was elected to common council from the Second ward in 1903, and is a member of the Committee on Water, Charities and Public Safety, and chairman of the Sub Committee on Police. He was married in 1894 to Miss Ida Fisher, of Allegheny, who died last April.

JOHN HOCK, proprietor of the Hemlock Hotel, at 225 Lowrie street, Troy Hill, Allegheny, and Select Councilman from the Thirteenth ward, was born in the Second ward, Allegheny, in 1863. His parents were Adam and Katharine Hock, both of whom are dead, the latter dying in 1880 and the former in 1892. Mr. Hock received his education in the parochial school of the Holy Name of Jesus, and upon leaving school started to learn the cabinet-makers' trade. Circumstances compelled him to change his occupation, and for a few years he was employed in a grocery, a shoe store and a machine shop. He then finished his trade as a cabinet maker and later learned wall paper hanging. In 1880 he opened a wall paper store at 63 Lowrie street and conducted business there successfully until 1894, when he started the Hotel Hemlock. In all business in which he has been engaged Mr. Hock has been successful and he is now in comfortable circumstances. He is an ardent Democrat and in 1890 was elected to Common Council, and in 1901 to the Select branch. He is a member of the Committees on Public Works, Public Safety and Grade Crossings.

On August 1, 1893, he married Miss Mary Walsh, of Allegheny. They have four children, Mary, John, Anna and Joseph. Mr. Hock and his wife are members of the Holy Name of Jesus Roman Catholic church, and in the church, in business and in politics Mr. Hock is trusted and respected.

JOHN R. HENRICKS, was born November 13, 1853, on what is now Beaver avenue, Sixth ward, Allegheny City. His education was secured in the public schools and by private tutors preparatory to being entered as a law student in the county courts, being located in the law office of one of the leading attorneys, the late J. W. Kirker. The sudden death of Mr. Henricks' father compelled a change in his life's plan, and leaving a fine musical education, secured through his mother's tutelage, who, in her time, was one of the ablest musicians in the city, he entered the employ of the well-known music house of Mellor & Hoene. After a few years, Mr. Henricks' diligence and ability secured his admittance as a partner, and the firm of Mellor, Hoene & Henricks was formed. After some years, Mr. Henricks formed a new combination and to-day he is Secretary and Treasurer in the large and well-known Henricks Piano Co., Ltd., established at 611 and 613 Smithfield street, Pittsburg, a family concern, consisting of himself and his sons, who represent the leading goods in their line. Mr. Henricks was elected to Allegheny Select Councils in 1886, serving eight years in that branch and afterwards twelve years in the Common branch, and is now the ablest member in service in either branch. He has served on all the leading committees and at present is chairman of the Survey Committee and a member of the Finance and Public Works Committees. The progress and history of Allegheny City from what was practically a large village to a city with all modern conveniences, electric lights, modern water system, electric car lines, new parks, sewers developed rural districts, bridges over valleys connecting sections, old streets repaved and new ones laid out, all have received the attention of Mr. Henricks, and in some particulars owe their present existence largely to his untiring exertions, notably the improvements in the rural districts, where practically a new city has been built. One special feature of Mr. Henricks' career has been his unflinching efforts to protect and secure proper remuneration for the middle and laboring classes of citizens, and during several periods of industrial depression the laboring element owe their employment on city improvements largely to his efforts. A wide range of experience in municipal legislation, natural and educational ability, with independence of thought and action united to a fluent manner in expressing his thoughts in debate and address, together with a genial personality, easily place Mr. Henrieks as one of the leaders of Council, if not the leader, at least in the Common branch. Mr. Henrieks' name has of late been mentioned in connection with the mayoralty, controlership and other principal offices, but his refusal has prevented his friends from pushing his candidacy.

WILLIAM A. FORD, Secretary and Treasury of the Ben Franklin Fire Insurance Company, with headquarters on the first floor of the Burry Building, 116 and 118 Ohio street, West, and Common Councilman from the Second ward, was born in 1854, in the Second ward, Allegheny. Until he was fourteen years old, he attended the public schools of his native city. Then his family moved to Newport, Ky., where they resided for several years, the father following the occupation of steamboat captain. William, while in Newport, attended the college of Bryant, Stratton and De Hand, and after graduating from that institution he became a clerk on his father's boat. In 1877 he married Lydia McCune, of Allegheny. To this union have been born three children, William A. Jr., Fanny L., and Howe R. Mr. Ford's parents were William W. and Mary A. Ford, both of whom are deceased. The year following Mr. Ford's marriage he left his position on the river to accept one with the Ben Franklin

Fire Insurance Company. He rose rapidly in this business, and filled successively all the places in the offices until he reached his present position.

The Ben Franklin Fire Insurance Company was established in 1860 and its charter is perpetual. Its capital stock is $200,000, with $600,000 assets. Last year it declared a dividend of 12 per cent. Its officers are: President, Samuel McKnight; Vice President, R. C. Tannehill; Secretary and Treasurer, William A. Ford. Mr. Ford is a Republican and has always taken an active interest in all political campaigns. He served twelve years as a director of the schools and for six years has been a member of the Common Council. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner, and is also a member of the Royal Arcanum and the Heptasophs. He and his family attend the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

JOHN SAUERS, son of Christian and Margaret (Windstein) Sauers, was born May 20, 1866, in Pittsburg, on the South Side. He received his education in the public schools of Pittsburg and Allegheny, Duff's College and Mt. Gallitzen Academy, at Ebensburg, Pa. For four years he was mileage clerk for the Cleveland & Pittsburg Railway Company, and upon the death of his father in 1887 he took charge of the Hotel Sauers at Church avenue and Federal street, and has conducted this business there ever since with marked success. Recently he purchased the hotel property at Federal street and the Ft. Wayne railroad, and when the work of remodeling the building which is now going on shall have been completed he will have the finest and best equipped hotel in the city.

Mr. Sauers is a model hotel proprietor and one of the most popular in Western Pennsylvania. He is a Republican in politics and has served as a delegate to state conventions a number of times, as well as two terms as Common Councilman from the Fourth ward. He is a member of the Americus Club, a life member of the Elks Club, and was a member of the Board of Directors of the Third National Bank of Allegheny, until it was absorbed by the Allegheny Trust Company.

MISS LOUISE ADELE ANDERSON, of Economy, Beaver County, Pa., the youngest grandchild of Col. Anderson, has the honor of unveiling the monument erected in his memory. Until three years ago she was a resident of Fair Oaks, Allegheny County, Pa., when she moved to her present home. She is a daughter of Margaret A. and the late Henry L. Anderson. Her grandparents on both her father's and mother's side were early settlers of Allegheny and Pittsburg, respectively. Her great grandfather, Major William Anderson, served in the Revolutionary War; her grandfather, Col. James Anderson, in the war of 1812, and her father in the Civil War of 1861-5. She is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Miss Anderson received her education at the Sewickley Academy, the Fourth ward, Pittsburg public schools, and at the Pittsburg Academy. She is a charming young woman and has a host of friends.

THOMAS L. HAZZARD, M. D. Dr. Hazzard is police surgeon of Allegheny. He came here from Monongahela City in 1881, at which time he was appointed a resident physician at the West Penn Hospital. Locating in Allegheny, he became a surgeon on the staff of the Allegheny General Hospital, where he has served since the opening of that institution. His father was Hon. T. R. Hazzard, and he is a brother of the late Col. Chill W. Hazzard, newspaper man, of Monongahela City. Serving his fellow-citizens he has been three times physician to the Poor Board, twice police surgeon, once city physician, six years a member of the Third ward school board, and as he says, "still manages to keep poor." Dr. Hazzard is one of the lecturers at the West Penn Medical College; was surgeon of the "Fiftin'" Tenth Pennsylvania militia under Col. Hawkins, assistant surgeon and later surgeon of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania militia, and is now senior vice commander of the Veteran Corps of the Eighteenth regiment, N. G. P. He is hale and hearty and very loyal to his friends.

CHAS. O. DEVERTS, Select Councilman from the Fifteenth ward, and chairman of the Committee on Public Works, was born in Allegheny, October 14, 1864. He received his education in the Third ward public schools. He is credit man for the John D. Berad Company, of Pittsburg. Mr. Deverts is a Thirty-second Degree Mason, a Shriner and a member of a number of social clubs. He is genial and courteous and has many friends.

WM. E. KIMBERLIN, Common Councilman from the Second ward, Allegheny, was born in 1861, and has always resided in the city. His education was received in the public schools of Allegheny, and at the age of 15 he went into business for himself, starting a meat market in Beaver avenue. For five years he continued in this business and then went into partnership with his father in the same line of trade. In 1898 he sold out to his father and associated himself with the Pittsburg Provision and Packing Company, located on Herrs Island, as a buyer of small stock, assuming charge of that department. He still holds that position. The Pittsburg Provision & Packing Company is the largest and most extensive provision and packing concern east of Chicago, and sells its products all over the country. It slaughters all its own meats and does a business of millions of dollars annually. Its extensive stock yards, on Herrs Island, are the pride of Pittsburg and Allegheny, and for the reason that every pound of provision and meat sent out is rigidly inspected by the United States government, the public knows it always gets pure products from this company. Mr. Kimberlin is a Republican and always takes an active interest in politics. He was elected to Common Council in 1895 and is serving his fourth term in that branch. He is chairman of the Committee on Public Safety and a member of the Committee on Public Works, Finance and Corporations. He is a Mason and a Shriner and a member of Allegheny Lodge, B. P. O. Elks. He was married in 1882 to Miss Ella Bourne, of Allegheny, and to this union have been born three sons, Oliver J., a page of Common Council; Frank B., weighmaster for the Pittsburg Provision & Packing Company, and Howard S., a student at the Allegheny High school. Mr. Kimberlin and his family are members of the Emmanuel Episcopal church.

JOSEPH H. SAUERS, one of Allegheny's prominent young business men, was born on the South Side, Pittsburg, March 5, 1876, his parents being Christian and Margaret Sauers. His father dying when he was a child, he was sent to Mt. Gallitzen Seminary, at Ebensburg, Pa., for five years. He then attended the public schools of the Second and Fourth wards, for three years, and after that attended the Trinity Hall Military School, at Washington, Pa., where he was a lieutenant. He finished his school education by graduating from Iron City College in 1893. After graduating he was employed with his brother, John Sauers, in the hotel business in Allegheny, until June 1, 1901, when he was appointed a clerk in City Recorder, John R. Murphy's office.

He was reappointed to the same position by Mayor James G. Wyman, and served in that capacity until June 1, of the present year, when he resigned to go into partnership with his brother, John Sauers, in the hotel business at Federal street and the Ft. Wayne Railroad. He was married August 5, 1897, to Miss Gertrude Hart. They have three children, Catherine, Camilla and Christian Kenneth. Mr. Sauers is a member of Allegheny Lodge, No. 339, B. P. O. Elks, and the Knights of Columbus. He is genial and courteous, and a favorite with all who know him.

Office, Westinghouse Building

Cor. Penn Ave. and Ninth St. PITTSBURG, PA.
Works, 3018 and 3020 Liberty Ave., PITTSBURG.

AMONG the prominent business men, who are residents of Allegheny, is John T. Bealor, Select Councilman in the 10th Ward.

Mr. Bealor is President of the John T. Bealor Mfg. Co., with offices in the Westinghouse building, at Ninth street and Penn avenue, and the works at 3018 and 3020 Liberty avenue, Pittsburg, Pa. The Company is in the heating, ventilating and plumbing business. It has this to say to the public:

The heating and ventilating system is to a building what the heart and lungs are to the human body.

Of course, therefore, nothing should be left to chance in a matter of such great importance. The only safe plan is to have the work done by a responsible concern that has proved itself worthy of confidence.

The John T. Bealor Manufacturing Co. has a long record of success in Pittsburg, and no failures

We do our own pipe cutting by power and have our own drafting room.

The heating and ventilating systems of many of the finest dwellings, mercantile buildings, churches and public buildings in Allegheny county were installed by us.

If you wish to inquire of our customers we will furnish names on application.

Plans and specifications prepared and submitted without charge.

PITTSBURGH has at last an ideal Stag Hotel. It is the Hotel Antler. This beautiful, up-to-date hostelry is located at 335 and 337 Fifth Avenue and is owned and conducted by Messrs. Daniel Olmsted and M. J. Thornton, both well-known and experienced hotel men.

The hotel is nine stories in height and the front is of polished granite. It contains 102 bed rooms, fifty private and six public bath rooms, all elaborately furnished—the bed rooms in brass and mahogany, with hot and cold water and telephones. The bath rooms are models in every particular. On the second floor are located the office and foyer, occupying a space of 20x40 feet; the writing room is 25x75 feet; the public parlor 16x40 feet; two private parlors 16x20 feet each; two dining rooms, one 16x50 feet and the other 26x70 feet. These are all furnished in exquisite style, no expense having been spared to make them perfect. On the first floor is the grill room, the finest that brains and money can secure. Then there are four alcoves, upholstered, five feet high, in leather, and seating eighty people. They are the delight of a stag hotel guest. The wainscoating on this floor is of Italian marble, trimmed in glass mosaic; and the side board and lunch counter are of Flemish oak. The side board is 100 feet in length and the lunch counter 50 feet. Between the lunch counter and grill room is a large show case ice box, where customers may choose from the stock the steak, chop or fish they desire served. The customers can also see their meats or fish prepared in the grill room. The possibilities of this splendid hotel for men only, are many. There is nothing like it in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, or West Virginia, and the public has begun to appreciate it already, although it has been in existence only since the first of May. The management solicit an inspection of the house and its equipment, and feel assured that all who see them will be pleased.

ODE
ANDERSON MONUMENT.

G. H. BARBOUR.

God wrote in letters large on earth and sky
And men, in books, dispute the reason why,
Searching the shore and sea, from age to age
For instances to crown the printed page.

Books are the cinematograph of time
Whose film of thought and lense of prose and rhyme
Bring Nilus, Nazareth and Nippon near.
There Caesars rise and Pharaohs disappear.
Peoples and nations, dynasties and creeds,
Cultures and fabrics wait on him who reads.

The rude forefather pondering brush and brook
Read life's stern task from nature's open book ;
His snug descendant if he would excel
Must learn the lessons of the past as well,
Destroy old structures to construct anew
And study Alma to conceive Kin-Chou.

How rare a chance and how supreme a joy,
Brought the sparse volume to the frontier boy,
Who conned it, phrase by phrase, from board to board.
Each word a lesson and each verse a hoard.
From such a source that grand oration came
That granted Gettysburg a nobler fame,
From such a germ, perhaps, the knowledge grew
That, in our day, Alaskan Boundaries drew,
Perhaps to such a grillage we may trace
The firm foundations of the Merger Case.

There came a lad, new to the western land,
Needing a friend, and found him book in hand.
Both often must have lingered by this spot,
The old ironmaster and the youthful Scot.
Now both are gone and one beyond recall,
But debts of both are cancelled in this hall.

What vision theirs as lounging, book on knee,
They trod those fastnesses of Liberty
Reached only on imagination's wing
Where souls consort in silence comforting?
Saw they the ruddy ore and coke and lime
To tough grey iron and stiffer steel sublime,
The river spanned, the rugged mountain scaled,
The very Heavens by thirty floors assailed,
Communication wound upon a reel
And fate of nations hung on hulls of steel?
No, 'twas another path their fancies took !
They saw in every empty hand a book,
Saw sorrow, care, despond and passion meet
In that one common where no drum may beat,
No storms foregather and no wrong endure,
The frank democracy of literature.

How apt and fit the group as here compiled!
The old man thoughtful and the eager child.
The one whose race is almost run looks back,
The other hungers for the forward track.
Gain, realization, wealth are not the goal,
The quest, the hope, the longing lift the soul,
The beating wing alone may hope to rise
And youth walks ever with uplifted eyes:
But few indeed who seek may hope to see
Dreams thus accomplished in What-has-to-be.

Sauers' New Restaurant

will be located at 311 Federal street and will be opened about Sept. 1st. The new building is four stories in height. The first floor will be a Cigar Store, Bar, Oyster and Lunch Counter, and a Gentlemen's Dining Room, 40x20. The entire lower floor will be finished in Flemish oak. On the second floor will be the Ladies' Dining Room, 60x20, a Ladies' Toilet Room and two Private Dining Rooms, 15x10 each and a large up-to-date Kitchen with the latest kitchen utensils. We are putting in our own refrigerating plant, and will have two very complete ice boxes, one in the kitchen, the other in the basement. We will have an up-to-date Oyster Counter where we will Stew, Roast or Steam the oysters right before you. We will also make a specialty of Lobsters, Crabs, Game, Rare Bits, Salads, Steaks and Chops. In fact we will have one of the most complete up-to-date restaurants in the two cities. Our location for doing a good business cannot be beat, as we are next to the Ft. Wayne and West Penn depots.

the subject of this sketch, is one of the widest known and best patronized optical specialists in America. He has offices in both New York and Pittsburg, and has adjusted glasses for all the presidents of the United States and their families from Rutherford B. Hayes down to Theodore Roosevelt. He has also fitted glasses for Bishop Whitehead, Joseph Jefferson, the veteran actor, Lowell M. Palmer, Hon. George B. Orady and Dr. Casleton Simon. He has received many letters in grateful acknowledgement of his services, among which is the following:

Executive Mansion, Washington, March 4, 1897.

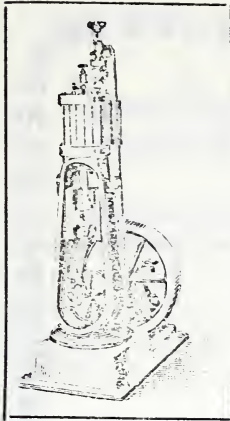

My Dear Sir:—I desire to thank you for the comfort I have derived from the use of glasses you have supplied to me during the past four years, and to acknowledge your services in thus making my work easier and more satisfactory.

Yours very truly,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

J. KORNBLOM, ESQ., Optician, Pittsburg.

Dr. Kornblum, in speaking of his work recently said: "My system is a scientific adjustment of glasses without the use of atrophine or any other drug calculated to distend the pupil of the eye for purposes of examination. My invention has been most successful in determining the strength of anyone's eyesight, and in nine cases out of ten, in grown people, I can, by putting them to my tests, ascertain just what is the matter with their eyes, and prescribe the proper glasses that should be worn." His offices in Pittsburg are on the Second Floor of the Arrott Building, and are admirably adapted for the purpose.
